Professor will run for School Board

Catherine Collins, an associate professor at Empire State College and the author of several books, has announced that she will be a candidate for an at-large seat in the May 4 Board of Education election.

Collins has a doctorate in educational administration from the University at Buffalo, where she is an adjunct professor. She has lectured in South Africa, Nigeria and Alaska and has been invited to speak at England's Oxford University this year about issues involving American women and children.
