My dear Sir

Mr. Cook has just shown me your letter to him referring to the serious illness of your sister. I cannot refrain from expressing the sympathies of my Morning's Correspondence long enough to express to you my sincere sympathy, with you in your feelings we had a time

on the part of hope, blame and expectations.

With the utmost hope that your future life may be spent, and that you may find it to be from depression on her account I am

Yours sincerely
