Did you know that the Maud Gordon Holmes Arboretum, located here on the Buffalo State campus, was officially dedicated in 1962? An arboretum is a place where an extensive variety of trees and shrubs is cultivated for scientific, educational, and ornamental purposes.

The enclosed brochure commemorates the 40th anniversary of the Maud Gordon Holmes Arboretum at Buffalo State College. Our campus is home to over 1,700 tree specimens that represent at least 100 different varieties to be studied and appreciated. As members of the college community, we hope that you will take the time for a stroll and enjoy the beautiful trees on our campus!

If you have any questions or would like additional brochures, please contact our certified arborist on campus, Joe Territo, at x6652, or Lisa Krieger at x6651.
